American Revolution

Agricultural Revolution- Interested person comment- No industrial revolution, which really transformed the economy? If it needs to be relevant to Lebanon for community interest then you could maybe focus on one topic, etc evolution of milking a cow from milking by hand to the machine method used today. These kind of topics maybe will be of more interest to younger people This could lead to the farming community's participation of open houses to demonstrate methods. Other topics could involve changes for bee keepers, maple syrup producers, etc. Just an idea.

Immigrational Revolution

Personal Revolution

Modern Revolution

- Formulation of expectations format for subcommittees
- We are blessed with creative folks on the team, we need them to be creative in creating the HOW of what we are going to be for a meeting or two before we get back to the WHAT of what we are creating.
Some suggestions:
  - Nuts and Bolts' (when will we meet, how long, where, who will be the scribe and keep the notes)
  - Create a guiding objective of what the central idea the subcommittee is looking to communicate (this needs to be in line with the overall guidance statement).
  - Who is the intended 'Customer' for what is being created?
